To some, fashion is a form of art. To others, it is almost like a religion. For most people, though, fashion is a method of utilizing clothing, accessories and grooming to show or hide something about yourself. Fashion can be an extension of your personality, allowing you to introduce parts of your personality to the world without saying a word. Conversely, the way you dress can also conceal parts of your personality or allow you to play a role. Clothing can be a costume, a uniform or a proclamation of independence.
