THE LAND OF CULTURE

"Banaras is older than tradition, older even than legend and twice as old as both of them put together." A city which is the oldest continually inhabited place in the world, yet seemingly timeless in a curious way. Its ghats embody the multiple facets of life. Its innumerable temples are the sanctuaries of unending spiritual grace, its people an affable and jovial lot, and the river Ganges which gives the city its meaning is the fountain of life and inspiration for millions.
