THE NEW CONCEPT

be yourself. Being a bride is a personal journey. It all comes down to who you are and what you really want from your wedding. Remember that, because it can be an amazing experience. You're entering into a new phase of your life with a partner, a friend, a guest - but at the same time, your emotions call for high, both excitement, or feelings of nervousness from your loved, self-pressure, and more.

And it's easy to get swept away by other people's expectations. That's when you need to take a breath, and realize that your wedding is an opportunity to express yourself, unapologetically, and engage fully in the moment, with no pressure.

One thing you must do is stick to your own style. Take time to develop your own vision of you as a bride, and imagine your look, tactile way. Think of how your clothes, jewelry, and make-up come together. There are all kinds of styles now - from more simple looks and look accessories, others choose that. It is lovely to see one's personality expressed. However you do, choose radiance, comfort and ease.

In the older days, when the prevailing custom was that brides were given away, they were covered in gold, jewels and more. Today, women have earned their equality, are partners in a new alliance, and will very often continue to study, work or run businesses. They do not need to be saved for the journey - instead, they dress to be their own best selves, holding their head up high and not in the posture of artificial modesty. Celebrate who you are, celebrate your life. Be yourself, be beautiful, be fabulous.
Use your Oodles as armour through this, look inside.

Dear bride,

You are the start of a new and exhilarating journey, one that promises to be exciting, challenging, and deeply in equal measure! And the one person who has been standing right next to you, ever since you decided to read this path led from your best friend, whether it's pouring the lovebirds or holding your hand in those moments of self-doubt - have been there, steadfast, like a rock. In the run-up to the wedding, there will be many important details that will need your attention - right from the venue and down to wedding favours and everything in between. Remember, you don't need to do it all by yourself. After all, what are best friends for? Use her as your sounding board and if at any point you feel overwhelmed, breathe and hold her hand. She'll be the one who will turn a fun bachelorette for you and ensure you get that spa break before marriage. big love!

On your big day, you will naturally be preoccupied. Trust, even, at times. She will be the one to rub off that lipstick smear on your chin and whisper your deepest fears. Get you that glass of champagne and crack a silly joke to ward off those tears. Use her better than her to show just how exactly you are feeling?

In the midst of all the hubbub, don't forget to take a moment to appreciate her efforts. Being you, beginning this new journey will be an equally emotional moment for her. Give her a warm hug, squeeze her hand, and gift her a little something just to show how thankful you are.
It's true, she will always love you. And she would be most happiest for you.
