Dawn

Only in my dreams, where the butterflies are a little, and I find the water, smooth surface to something so much greater than I could ever imagine.

Your smile. Your smile.
Your eyes. Your light.
The beauty unspoken.

Hold back the Dawn

Only in my dreams, where the butterfly will fly over me and find the same smile, as if I were something so much greater than I could ever imagine.

Wind blows, your callous
feet move, your hair
the beauty unbound.
